Specific information is included on the structure and organization of the campus, the advisory role of the faculty in governance, and the procedures and expectations for faculty growth and development. It includes information of general interest to the Campus faculty about those University policies and procedures most relevant to their professional academic life. For complete information on related policy, see the University Policy Register and the Collective Bargaining Agreements, which are the primary sources. Nothing in this Faculty Handbook shall be construed to modify or qualify those documents in any way.

SECTION II

MISSION AND OBJECTIVES

A. University Role and Mission Statement

From its roots as one of Ohio's original four-corner universities, Kent State University celebrates 100-years of teaching and research excellence to serve the public good -- service which will continue into its second century and beyond. Kent State aspires to distinguish itself as a magnet for high-achieving students. Kent State is a traditional, selective, residential public research university; it is also a multicampus university, with open access on its Regional Campuses to serve local communities in Northeast Ohio.

Mission Statement

The mission of Kent State University is to discover, create, apply and share knowledge, as well as to foster ethical and humanitarian values in the service of Ohio and the global community. B. Regional Campuses Mission Statement

The mission of the seven Regional Campuses is to extend to the residents of Northeast Ohio access to the quality higher education programs and services of Kent State University. The campuses share the philosophy of the University by promoting the pursuit of a liberal education while striving to meet the needs of society with technical programs that help prepare a paraprofessional workforce. The campuses are an entry point to higher education for high school graduates, and they provide access for persons who see them as a way to build secure and better lives for themselves. The campuses provide course work at the freshman and sophomore levels in technical and baccalaureate areas, in the university's Liberal Education Requirement, associate degree programs, and select baccalaureate degrees, continuing study, basic skills classes, as well as selected junior, senior, and graduate courses within the eight campus system. For students, the campuses are close to home and affordable, and many students enroll on a part-time basis. The campuses provide the breadth of programs and services necessary for a successful college experience, have the distinctive feature of being part of the larger university, and provide their communities with public service activities of an educational nature for personal growth and development.

C. East Liverpool Campus Mission Statement

Kent State University East Liverpool Campus, an open admission campus, provides high quality credit and non-credit courses and educational programs, career preparation, stimulation of critical thinking, and enhancement of creative and educational activity. Located in the Appalachian region, this campus also serves as a cultural center, thereby enhancing the quality of life. Educational opportunities and programs provide insight into local cultures, and increase understanding and appreciation of the rich and diverse cultural heritage of the region. Although regionally unique, Kent State East Liverpool shares the eight-campus network mission: to advance knowledge and creative activity, and to further the fulfillment of key societal goals.

D. East Liverpool Campus Objectives

The primary concern of the East Liverpool Campus is the student. As set forth in the Constitution of Kent State University,

The University's primary concern is the student. It endeavors to provide the academic atmosphere, the human association and the discipline vital to the student's sound intellectual growth and character development. The various programs of curricular and extracurricular activities are designed to stimulate curiosity, broaden perspective, enrich awareness, deepen understanding, establish disciplined habits of thought, provide preparation for a vocation and help in realizing the potential of students as individuals and informed members of society.

The East Liverpool Campus remains dedicated to the goals of Kent State University and the Regional Campuses, as set forth by the Ohio Board of Regents. This includes offering quality instruction in the baccalaureate program, including LER courses, associate degree programs, technical programs leading to an associate degree, selected baccalaureate degrees, upper division and graduate resident credit courses, and continuing studies/workforce development.

The Regional Campuses are also expected to meet the special needs of the communities served, to the extent that resources permit. Within these general parameters, the East Liverpool Campus has established and has been implementing the following specific goals and objectives:

- To offer sufficient coursework so that any student may complete specific Associate Degree technical programs which meet Ohio Board of Regents and Kent State University standards.
- To offer baccalaureate courses leading to the Associate of Arts and the Associate of Science Degrees in General Studies; and to include selected upper division and graduate courses leading to various baccalaureate and graduate degrees.
- To offer select baccalaureate programs at the Columbiana County Campuses.
- To offer selected upper-division and graduate courses to the extent that local demand, physical resources, and Ohio Board of Regents criteria allow. The courses offered depend on student and community needs and Board of Regents approval.
- To make available select technical courses, which do not lead to technical associate degrees awarded by this campus, but which meet student and community needs. Each semester the East Liverpool Campus offers courses to meet the individual needs of students or community members who wish to add to their specific knowledge or who wish simply to improve their job value or to be re-trained.

- To offer non-credit courses/workshops/seminars in response to local needs, coordinating local resources and the resources of the University
- To provide an academic skills assessment program , basic skills courses, and tutorials at the East Liverpool Campus
- To encourage and promote faculty research and professional development.

SECTION III

ORGANIZATION AND STRUCTURE

A. Administrative Organization

The Columbiana Campuses of Kent State University are at East Liverpool and Salem. They exist as part of the Regional Campus System of Kent State University. The Dean of the Columbiana County campuses reports to the Provost of the University. The following are the chief operating officers at the Columbiana County Campus serving East Liverpool.

The Campus Dean is the chief administrative officer and is responsible for all operations at the Columbiana Country Campuses. The Dean directs and supervises the Campus in policy, budget and program planning. The Dean is responsible for academic policies and procedures; supervises all faculty and non-academic personnel and staffing activities; and is ultimately responsible for instruction, student welfare, and community relations. To assist the Dean in these responsibilities the Dean has an Associate/Assistant Dean, Director of Enrollment Management and Student Services, Business Administrator, and various other positions which may change from time to time.

The Associate/Assistant Dean is the academic officer for the campus. The Associate/Assistant Dean has the responsibility for overseeing and implementing academic programs, new course and program development working closely with the Faculty Instructional Affairs Committee; working with the Faculty Academic Affairs Committee in determining faculty workload, workload reductions and hiring; scheduling of courses; distributing, collecting and evaluating the student evaluations of instruction materials; being a liaison with the Kent Campus departments and chairpersons on routine academic matters; and generally fostering the academic welfare of the campus and faculty.

The Director of Enrollment Management and Student Services oversees admissions, recruitment, student advising, and all other services related to the student population for the Columbiana County Campuses.

The Business Administrator is responsible for all fiscal and budgetary aspects, and oversees all matters concerning maintenance and security for the Columbiana County Campuses.

B. Administrative Affairs Committee

This group, comprised of all East Liverpool Campus administrators, meets on an as needed basis to discuss matters of importance to the administrative staff and to coordinate upcoming events which need administrative support and assistance. Meetings of this group are open to all faculty, and representatives from the Executive Committee of the Faculty Council should attend.

C. Advisory Board

The East Liverpool Campus Advisory Board, composed of twelve citizens, advises the Columbiana County Campuses' Dean who serves as an Ex-Officio member. Members are nominated by the Board, after consultation with the Dean. From the list of the nominees, the Campus Dean makes recommendations to the University President. All appointments to the Advisory Board are made by the President of the University.

This group serves to identify local needs that can be served by the Campus. Its members are instrumental in areas such as obtaining funds for programs and scholarships and securing public understanding of and support for higher education in the East Liverpool area. Meetings of the Advisory Board are held monthly during the academic year.

The stated purposes of the Advisory Board are:

- to represent the interests of both the local community and Kent State University in the overall development of higher educational programs in the East Liverpool area;
- to communicate the role and mission of the Campus to the community;
- to promote the goals and objectives of both the Campus and the University;
- to assist in the development of those resources necessary for the Campus to carry out its educational mission, especially the financial resources necessary to meet the ever-increasing costs of higher education;
- to provide political, educational and any other assistance it deems appropriate for the Campus and the University to accomplish their educational objectives; 6) to articulate the cultural aspects of the Campus and the community.

D. Faculty

Faculty at the East Liverpool Campus are committed to teaching, professional development, and university and community citizenship. As appropriate for a regional campus, the faculty place more emphasis on effective teaching, a primary goal of the Campus; in addition, faculty engage in active scholarship, which is essential to quality teaching and professional development. Faculty also are expected to provide service in a variety of areas. University citizenship can include service to: the University, college, department and/or school, East Liverpool Campus, and East Liverpool area community service. All full-time faculty at the East Liverpool Campus relate to the general governance of the University by service on various Kent Campus bodies. These may include the Faculty Senate; department, school, or college Faculty Advisory Committees; Promotion, Reappointment and Tenure Committees; Curricular Committees, ad hoc committees and various departmental and collegial committees.

Faculty members report to the East Liverpool Campus Associate/Assistant Dean and are directly accountable to the Dean in all matters, except those pertaining to course content and mode of instruction, primary responsibility for which rests with the Kent Campus department or school or the Regional Campuses College.

E. Faculty Governance

Local campus faculty are governed by the Faculty Council (FC) as set forth in its Constitution (see Appendix A). The FC is composed of all full-time faculty and one elected part-time faculty representative whose designated resident campus is East Liverpool. The FC meets during the semester to discuss faculty concerns, curricular matters, and local campus, Regional Campus, and University issues. This council is also ultimately responsible for approving the creation of all ad hoc or standing faculty committees (See Appendix B for Faculty Committee Descriptions). The executive officers of the Faculty Council--the Chairperson, Vice Chairperson, and Secretary-Treasurer--represent the FC membership at meetings and in consultation with the Dean and at the joint Faculty-Administrative Executive Committee meetings. The Faculty Council abides by the East Liverpool Campus Faculty Council Constitution for its rules, regulations, and authority.

The FC shall consider and advise the Dean on all academic matters which include, but are not necessarily limited to, the following:

- issues concerning reappointment, tenure, and promotion, and dismissal of resident faculty of the campus;
- appointment of new resident faculty, including issues of rank and salary parameters;
- review of full-time non-tenure faculty assigned to the campus;
- allocation or reallocation of faculty positions and academic staff positions, including new and vacant positions;
- campus program development, restructuring, and/or discontinuance;
- evaluations relating to faculty salary increases and other salary adjustments, when and if applicable;
- campus planning and budget priorities, including review of requests for new funding in support of academic programs and allocation of discretionary resources;
- selection and structure of campus-wide committees, including search committees;
- issues related to teaching assignments and class schedules including appropriate application of workload equivalencies;
- faculty professional improvement, research, and other leaves;
- procedures for the establishment review and appropriate revision of the campus handbook;
- issues related to the advising and retention of students;
- insuring that instructional standards are followed; and
- insuring that class and other duties of faculty members are met.

The above duties may be delegated to other campus committees or to the chair of the FC, either by provision of the campus handbook or by specific recorded action of the full campus faculty or by the FC.

SECTION IV

FACULTY APPOINTMENT, EMPLOYMENT, REGULATIONS AND PROCEDURES

A. General Information

The procedures followed at the East Liverpool Campus regarding appointment of new faculty follow established Kent State University policies, including adherence to the Affirmative Action policy and procedures. Each appointment must take place within the context of the University's commitment to equal opportunity.

The responsibilities of faculty at the Columbiana County Campus at East Liverpool are the same as those at every other campus of Kent State University. These are the scholarship of teaching as well as scholarly research and creative activity, and University and community citizenship responsibilities. However, because of regional campuses' distinctive mission, more emphasis is placed on the act of teaching than is the case at the Kent Campus.

Appointment of a faculty member at the Columbiana County Campuses of Kent State is complicated by the fact that, while faculty are full members of a Kent Campus academic department, their tenure and teaching assignments are in the Regional Campuses, and these campuses are budgeted separately from the Kent Campus. In Columbiana County, faculty may be assigned to East Liverpool, Salem, or both through a dual appointment. In any case, a faculty member will be primarily assigned to one of the campuses.

Detailed information on regulations regarding appointment and employment can be found in the University Policy Register.

B. Diversity Commitment

Kent State University is pledged to making all of its campuses inclusive, diverse, and free from discrimination. The University's equal-opportunity policies extend to every aspect of employment, academics, and student-life. No unlawful discrimination in employment, admissions, academic programs, recruiting, financial aid, or social, recreational and health programs is permissible or tolerated.

The Office of Affirmative Action is the principal agency responsible for implementing fairness and good-faith practices across the University. This goal is defined in detail in the Affirmative Action Program of Kent State University, which is updated and republished from time to time. Individual faculty members are encouraged to contact either the Office of Affirmative Action on the Kent Campus or the Kent East Liverpool Campus Affirmative Action Facilitator at any time if they need information regarding their rights, or if they wish to learn about procedures available to resolve concerns or complaints.

C. Tenure and Non-tenure Track Appointments

A prospective faculty member's appointment to the Columbiana County Campus at East Liverpool must be approved by the Columbiana County Campuses' Dean, the Academic unit, the Collegial/School Dean, the Executive Dean for Regional Campuses, and the Office of the Provost. Appointments are then made by the Board of Trustees, upon the recommendation of the President. All other faculty personnel recommendations are subject to similar approval.

The procedure for hiring a new faculty member to the Columbiana County Campus at East Liverpool conforms to the Regional Campuses Guidelines for Academic Search Committees. After a campus review of enrollment trends and projections, a position request is made to the Executive Dean for Regional Campuses. If approved, a job description is crafted establishing the qualifications for the position, describing the nature of the position, and establishing the deadline dates for application. The position is then advertised appropriately. The job description also identifies a person to whom applications should be directed.

The Columbiana County Campus at East Liverpool search committees are formed by the Dean of the Campuses and approved by the Office of Affirmative Action. Committees generally consist of tenured or tenure-track faculty (although provisions are sometimes made for the participation of NTT faculty) and the chair is usually a senior faculty member in his or her discipline. Once committees are formally charged by the Dean, they are provided with training sessions to ensure fair-hiring practices and the following of hiring protocols (especially those developed by the Office of Affirmative Action).

The search committee is responsible for identifying a short list of candidates to be submitted to the department chair for review and approval. From the list of candidates approved by the department, the search committee submits a list of three or four candidates to the Campus Dean. A search committee, if it so chooses, may rank the candidates (Collective Bargaining Agreement, Article VI, Section 1).

At the conclusion of the committee's screening process and following the approval of the Affirmative Action Office, the Campus Dean makes a recommendation to the Executive Dean for Regional Campus's office. Upon the approval of the Executive Dean, an offer of appointment is made. This offer must be in writing and will minimally include the department of the prospective faculty member; dates and periods of employment; the type of appointment, tenure, or promotion; other terms of appointment, such as the initial Regional Campus to which the faculty member is assigned, promotion and tenure clauses; the responsibilities of the position; and possibilities for summer teaching. (See Regional Campuses Guidelines for Academic Searches.)

While faculty are full members of their respective Kent Campus academic units, their tenure and teaching assignments are in the Regional Campus System, which is budgeted separately from the Kent Campus. This means that new faculty members must become aware of the structure of governance, standards for evaluation of probationary faculty, and the general culture within both their departments and the Columbiana County Campuses. This handbook, along with the Regional Campus Handbook, should provide an overview of the East Liverpool Campus and the Regional Campuses system. However, new faculty members are strongly encouraged to learn about their own departments from their chair and other senior faculty, and to engage in a modest amount of departmental service.

Moreover, the University has the right to reassign an individual to a different campus from his or her initial appointment. Such decisions are made by the Executive Dean for Regional Campuses and are governed by considerations of seniority as well as the procedures outlined in the Collective Bargaining Agreements for regular and NTT faculty (Regional Campus Handbook 23). Resident faculty status at a specific Regional Campus is determined annually on the basis of assigned contractual teaching load for the fall semester.

D. Multiple Campus Appointments.

Faculty members may be appointed to teach at more than one campus; however, the campus of residence is determined by the fall semester teaching load; that is, the home campus is the campus at which one teaches the most in the fall (CBA, Article VI).

E. Faculty Ranks

Regular Full-time Faculty Ranks. “Regular full-time faculty” includes only those persons who have tenure or are “tenure-track,” i.e., who have probationary appointments. The Kent State Columbiana Campuses at East Liverpool Campus follows the University’s policy with respect to faculty rank as set forth in the University Policy Register. Depending on the level of an individual full-time faculty member’s credentials, qualifications and experience, he or she will occupy one of the following ranks: (i) Instructor, (ii) Assistant Professor, (iii) Associate Professor, and (iv) Professor. Tenure-track appointments for new faculty members typically begin at the Assistant level, depending upon a new hire’s credentials and the negotiations that occur at the time of hire. A definition of tenure, a discussion of the initial probationary period, and the procedures for the granting of tenure are included in the documents “University Policy and Procedures Regarding Faculty Reappointment” and “University Policy Regarding Faculty Tenure,” which can be found in the University Policy Register. For regular full-time faculty, assignment or advancement to these ranks normally occurs by promotion, or upon initial appointment when specific criteria are met. For more details, see “University Policy Regarding Promotion” in the University Policy Register.

Full-time Non-tenure-track (NTT) Appointments. NTT appointments follow University rules as set forth in the University Policy Register and The Non-tenure-track Faculty Collective Bargaining Agreement. The teaching load for a full-time NTT faculty member amounts to 30 hours per year. So, an NTT instructor must teach a combination of courses between the fall and spring semester that will yield that number of load hours. He or she may be required to make up any differences in service or other designated work—for example, advising—as required under the conditions of his or her contract with the Columbiana County Campus at East Liverpool and per agreement with the University. NTT appointments for new faculty members typically begin at the Instructor or Assistant levels, depending upon a new hire’s credentials and the negotiations that occur at the time of hire. NTT faculty members completing the third year of a three-year term of annually renewable appointments must undergo a full performance review as a prerequisite for subsequent appointment as do those in their sixth year (Non-tenure-track Faculty Collective Bargaining Agreement, Article IX, Section 4). The formal review continues into the ninth year during which a less formal review takes place. Other responsibilities and expectations of NTT faculty members in the Regional Campus System may be found in the Regional Campus Handbook.

Temporary Faculty: Adjunct, Part-time and Visiting Faculty. The Regional Campus System maintains contractual relationships with temporary faculty, contingent upon certain conditions, limitations, and policies, and consistent with the University Policy Register and the Collective Bargaining Agreements with regular and NTT faculties. Temporary faculty members on the Columbiana Campus at East Liverpool play an important role in fulfilling its teaching mission. They are accorded the same academic freedom in the classroom as regular faculty, and temporary faculty members are encouraged to become involved in the East Liverpool campus community, to the extent possible. Other responsibilities and expectations of temporary faculty members in the Regional Campus System may be found in the Regional Campus Handbook. Temporary appointments are ordinarily for one year or for one semester. No implication of reappointment is intended. In some instances a department may wish to designate "temporary" for appointees who are potentially permanent staff when a particular advanced degree is attained. Temporary appointees are not covered by the Collective Bargaining Agreements with regular and NTT faculties.

Service as a temporary appointee is not applicable toward tenure, promotion in rank, or similar faculty professional advancements. There is no institutional obligation beyond the period of the temporary appointment. Any number of consecutive years of service is a disconnected sequence of discrete appointments.

If a department wishes to appoint a temporary person with rank of Assistant Professor, Associate Professor, or Professor, that appointment should be prefaced by "Visiting." Visiting faculty members generally enjoy the same academic rights and privileges as other regular Kent State University faculty members. However, they do not enjoy the same rights of participation in University decision-making as do Kent State University regular faculty members and are ineligible for elections to the various East Liverpool Campus faculty committees and councils.

Temporary faculty on the Columbiana County Campus at East Liverpool are reviewed at least once annually by the Associate/Assistant Dean for Academic Affairs or by the program coordinator in their teaching area. Classroom performance—an important component of the scholarship of teaching—is weighted most heavily in such reviews.

Further academic ranks of the University are Research Professor, Visiting Distinguished Professor, Senior Research Fellow, Lecturer, Visiting Artist, Student Assistant, Research Associate, and Postdoctoral Fellow. More detailed information concerning these ranks is in the University Policy Register.

F. Academic Year Workload Expectations

Regional Campus faculty have a standard teaching load as follows, although other duties (administrative appointments, etc.) may and should provide load reductions as determined by the Campus Dean for the faculty member (see Appendix C, East Liverpool Workload Equivalency Policy)

- The teaching load for a regular full-time tenured or tenure-track faculty member is 24 hours (or equivalent) per academic year.
- The teaching load for a full-time non-tenure-track (NTT) faculty member is 30 hours (or equivalent) per academic year.
- Teaching load for interactive and distributed learning courses will be arranged individually and in accordance with the Collective Bargaining Agreement, depending on the scope of such courses and the amount of preparation required. It is at the discretion of the faculty member and the Columbiana County Campuses' Dean to seek reimbursement for preparation time.
- Faculty members who make a special contribution to the Campus in areas other than classroom teaching, e.g., chairing Faculty Council or advising students for the Office of Student Services, may receive special assignment hours equivalent to teaching hours in order to carry out those contributions. (This provision does not refer to the normal, expected faculty activities considered to be service/university citizenship.)

Scheduling varies by department, but each faculty member should expect a portion of contract load to be assigned during the evening hours. Class size is contingent upon facilities and need, and is determined by the Assistant/Associate Dean in consultation with the department, the campus departmental coordinator, and the instructor. A faculty member may also expect to be assigned to teach at other Kent State University campuses if enrollments do not justify a full teaching load at the Kent East Liverpool Campus, or if there is a need at another campus.

G. Overload Policy. Compensation for teaching overload at the East Liverpool Campus is governed by the policy described in the Collective Bargaining Agreement (Article IX, Section 3-B). In situations where there is a choice between using a temporary faculty member or assigning overload to a full-time faculty member, the decision shall be made by the Dean of the Columbiana County Campuses in consultation with the campus departmental coordinator.

H. Summer Teaching Policy. Summer teaching opportunities may be available for Kent East Liverpool Campus faculty members, and are contingent upon course demands and enrollment projections. The Dean of the Columbiana County Campuses makes summer teaching assignments. The Regional Campus System follows the rule of equitable distribution of opportunities for summer employment among members of the regular faculty bargaining unit. In actual practice, this principle requires supervision by faculty members and administrators alike, because staffing changes are irregular and positions are often not filled until the last moment when many faculty are away from their campuses.

I. Intersession Teaching. Opportunities to teach a single course each year during intersession, a three-week period between the end of spring semester and the beginning of summer classes, may be available for faculty members at the Columbiana County Campus at East Liverpool. Course offerings are approved by the Dean of the Columbiana County Campus in consultation with department coordinators, and are contingent upon course demand, enrollment projections, and the probability of the successful delivery of the course in the intensive intersession format. An intersession assignment does not count for either summer load or for overload. For more information about intersession teaching see the University Policy Register.

J. Payroll.

All full-time faculty members are given the option of receiving their academic salary in nine or twelve months, paid semi-monthly on the 15th and the last day of the month. Should either day fall on a weekend or holiday, pay will be distributed on the last business day before the 15th or the last day of the month. Compensation for fall and spring overload is divided among the months of the respective semester. As well, compensation for the three summer sessions is divided among the semi-monthly pay dates during each summer session. Intersession compensation is provided in mid-June. Electronic direct deposit to checking and/or savings accounts is available and encouraged.

SECTION V

REAPPOINTMENT, TENURE, AND PROMOTION

This section of the Handbook includes information concerning policies and procedures that govern processes of decision-making concerning such important issues as promotion, tenure, and reappointment of faculty within the Regional Campus system. In the case of academic personnel reviews, care should be taken to review the guidelines and other materials circulated annually by the Provost for specific procedures to be followed.

A. Background

There are no more important decisions made concerning the relationships between the University and its faculty than those related to promotion to higher rank, tenure with its implication of lifelong appointment with the University, and reappointment for probationary faculty. Consequently, the policies and procedures which govern these decisions are elaborated in some detail within the structure of University regulations.

Reappointment, tenure, and promotion within the Regional Campus system follow the Kent Campus pattern, but with some important differences. First, promotion and tenure decisions provide for an advisory and recommendatory role for the faculty advisory group at the individual campus and for the Campus Dean. The procedure recognizes that Regional Campus faculty hold membership and rank in an academic department while discharging their responsibilities and holding tenure within the Regional Campus System.

Criteria for consideration of candidates for reappointment, tenure and promotion as well as minimal expectations of performance and years in rank, are described in detail or referenced in the original appointment letter, in the relevant University policies, and in materials circulated annually at the onset of the review process. Additional and more specific criteria may be found in departmental handbooks, the handbooks of the regional campuses, and the Collective Bargaining Agreements.

General criteria for consideration of candidates for reappointment, tenure, and promotion as well as minimal expectations of performance and years in rank, are described in detail or referenced in the original appointment letter, in the relevant University policies, and in materials circulated annually at the onset of the review process.

Substantive criteria, developed departmentally and collegially, are elaborated in the departmental, school, and college handbooks. University guidelines must also be observed. These guidelines are included in the documents circulated annually by the Provost's Office

Reappointment.

Tenure Track Faculty Reviews. All regular, full-time, probationary, tenure-track faculty will go through a reappointment review as outlined in the university reappointment policy.

Candidates should refer to their department/school/college guidelines for reappointment criteria and procedures. Because of the special mission of the Columbiana County Campus at East Liverpool, a candidate will be expected to submit evidence of the strength in the act of teaching and service/university citizenship. In addition, evidence of appropriate research and creative activity is expected (see weighting of criteria in Section C pages 21-23).

NTT Faculty Reviews. Non tenure-track faculty (NTT) are reviewed according to the guidelines outlined in their own Collective Bargaining Agreement and their academic unit. In evaluating NTT candidates for reappointment, primary consideration will be given to demonstrating strength in the act of teaching.

Tenure. All regular, full-time, probationary, tenure-track faculty are eligible at certain times for tenure review according to years of service and rank differentiations. These are described in the materials distributed annually by the Office of the Provost.

Regional Campus faculty who receive tenure are tenured in the Regional Campuses and not on the Kent Campus. Conversely, Kent Campus faculty who are tenured are tenured on the Kent Campus and not in the Regional Campuses according to university policy #3342-8-01.1

The granting of tenure is a deliberate and important decision. Essentially those involved in making a tenure decision are asking the question, "Is this person likely to make a positive contribution to his/her discipline, unit, campus, university and community over the long term?"

Faculty should refer to the departmental/school and university guidelines for tenure criteria. Because of the special mission of the East Liverpool Campus, a candidate will be expected to submit evidence of strength in the act of teaching and university citizenship. In addition, evidence of appropriate activity scholarly research or creative activity is expected (see Weighting criteria in Section C pages 21-23).

Promotion. All regular, full-time tenured and probationary faculty are eligible at certain times for promotion review according to years of service and rank differentiations. These are described in the materials distributed annually by the Office of the Provost.

Although tenure is held in the Regional Campuses, academic rank is held in the department, school, or college. Therefore, the individual should refer to his/her academic department/school/college handbook for criteria for promotion. The criteria for promotion are established by the department/school/college in consultation with faculty.

A major consideration for promotion to all ranks will be documented evidence of strength in teaching and service/university citizenship. In the area of citizenship, evidence of campus leadership commensurate with rank should be demonstrated. Research that integrates knowledge or advances discovery in the discipline is necessary for promotion to full professor.

B. Procedures

Usually in the spring semester, prior to the beginning of the academic year, the office of the Provost initiates the review process by circulating a document outlining procedures and deadlines to Schools, University departments/schools/colleges and Deans of Regional Campuses.

All regular, full- time probationary, tenure-track faculty are eligible at certain times for tenure review according to years of service and rank differentiations. Departments will notify prospective candidates, by the end of the spring semester of the previous academic year, of their nomination for promotion eligibility. The procedures are described by the materials distributed by the Office of the Provost and other documents which have been developed departmentally and collegially, and elaborated in the respective faculty handbooks. Faculty should consult their departmental handbooks for such procedures. University guidelines have also been developed which must be observed.

Although a faculty member may stand for both promotion and tenure at the same time, it should be remembered that these are two distinct personnel actions requiring separate procedures, timetables and guidelines.

The University establishes a timetable for personnel actions for faculty. This varies from year to year and is specified in a document published by the Provost. Faculty seeking reappointment, tenure, or promotion should consult the schedule in this document upon publication. As a practical matter, preparation of materials and consultation with the department chairperson and campus dean should begin with nomination the preceding spring. All materials must be submitted to the webfolio system at Kent State University.

Tenure Track Faculty Reappointment Review

Annual review of probationary, tenure-track faculty for reappointment shall be undertaken each year until consideration for tenure. Non-tenure track faculty are subject to separate review. Annual review is often undertaken at approximately the same time as tenure and promotion decisions, but specific time tables are established annually for each type of review. Candidates for reappointment should consult the document published by the Office of the Provost.

As with tenure and promotion reviews, the candidate prepares an electronic file of evidence in support of a favorable recommendation. The file is presented to the Department Chair/School Director/College Dean (henceforth, Chair) for Certification of File Completeness. The candidate and the Department chair are both required to sign the completeness form. Probationary Faculty are encouraged to meet personally with their department chair concerning the contents of the file.

Each member of the East Liverpool Reappointment, Tenure and Promotion Committee reviews the files of the candidate and makes an independent written evaluation for or against the candidate. This committee meets to discuss the evaluations of each candidate. The written evaluations and votes are collected by the East Liverpool Campus Faculty Council Chair, who tabulates the votes and writes a letter of recommendation to the Columbiana County Campuses' Dean and sends a copy to the appropriate department chair/school director/dean. The Faculty Council Chair also notifies each candidate in writing of the committee's recommendations, with a copy to the Campus Dean, Department Chair, College Dean and where applicable, the appropriate Graduate Dean.

Tenure Review

Faculty who are eligible for tenure review are notified by department chair/school directors/college deans (henceforth, Chair). Faculty prepare a file of evidence in support of their review. The file is submitted electronically to the webfolio system at Kent State. Candidates meet with their department chairs or equivalents to assure that the file contents are complete. The candidate and the chairperson must both sign the Certification of File Completeness, and a copy of the certificate is placed in the electronic file.

- All tenured faculty assigned to the Campus Reappointment, Tenure, and Promotion Committee will read each of the files, and make appropriate notes for recommendation to be written at a later time.
- A meeting of the committee will be announced by the Chairperson of the Faculty Council, who will be the presiding officer during all discussions. Each of the candidates will be presented for discussion by the chairperson. The discussion of the committee will focus on the efforts of the candidate in all areas of review, with the understanding that teaching carries more weight, for regional campus faculty, through the various administrative levels of review and assessment (see weighting criteria in Section C page 21-25).
- Each member of the committee will complete an evaluation form for each candidate and submit it to the Faculty Council Chair. The Chair will prepare a summary evaluation and recommendation to be forwarded to the Dean of the Columbiana County Campuses, with copy to the Departmental Chairperson, college dean, and Vice Provost for Regional Campuses. The Faculty Council Chair will also notify the candidate of the committee's recommendation.
- The Columbiana County Campuses' Dean then reviews the materials for each candidate and with consideration of the recommendation of the Faculty Council Chair and the members of the Committee makes an independent recommendation to the College Dean, with copies to the Departmental Chair/Dean/Director, the Candidate, and the Provost.

For complete guidelines see the timetable for Regional Campus faculty, which is published by the office of the Provost.

Promotion Review

The Provost, initiating the promotion process, identifies those faculty eligible for promotion review and notifies appropriate departmental chairs and Regional Campus Deans. The departmental/school/college FAC will formalize the list of potential candidates for promotion by a simple majority vote. The departmental chair then notifies the candidate that he/she has been nominated for promotion. This notification will take place during the Spring Semester, for consideration of promotion during the following academic year. This nomination does not confer favor or approval of the candidate, but only serves as notification. Faculty also may self-nominate or have their names entered by other faculty. Individual faculty have the right to remove their names from candidacy. All faculty nominees have the responsibility of providing all information pertinent to the nomination.

Although promotion may be granted at any time, as recognition of outstanding performance, there are conventional expectations of years of service. Promotion sought prior to the conventional expectation to a particular rank is considered early promotion. Early promotion is unusual and is granted only under compelling and/or extraordinary circumstances.

Regional Campus faculty nominees for promotion are to provide an electronic file of evidence. The file is to be reviewed with the candidate and the department chair/school director/college dean for completeness. The candidate and the chair must both sign the Certification of File Completeness, and one copy of the file is sent to the Campus Dean.

The process for the review of those candidates to be considered for promotion is the same as for tenure and reappointment, with the following exceptions:

- Candidates for promotion will be assessed by those who hold the rank for which they are applying or a higher one.
- The faculty discussion about those who have applied for promotion will be limited to those who hold the rank or higher.
- Promotion review to full professor requires that three letters from outside reviewers be added to the promotion file. These letters are solicited by the Chair of the Department/School Director/College Dean, from names submitted by the candidate. Copies are placed in the electronic folio. Also in compliance with the voting procedures, the Dean of the Regional Campus may ask for approval of the Provost to augment the Promotion Committee to bring the voting membership to four or more.
- The Faculty Council Chair, regardless of his/her rank, will summarize the recommendations from the faculty who evaluated the candidates and send the summary to the Dean and to the Department Chair/School Director/College Dean, along with a letter to the candidate, and the Provost.

Reappointment, Tenure, and Promotion Review Committee

The campus reappointment, tenure and promotion committee (RTP) will consist of all full-time tenured faculty whose primary assignment is the Columbiana County Campus at East Liverpool. The FC chair will convene the committee. After reviewing candidates' files, the RTP members will discuss the strengths and weaknesses of each candidate. The chair will take a straw vote of the RTP members regarding support or nonsupport of the candidates. Members will submit their written evaluation of each candidate to the chair. The chair will express these views in a letter which will be sent to the campus Dean, the candidate, and the appropriate Kent Campus administrator. Copies of the written evaluations will also be included with the letter to the candidate and placed in the e-folio document.

C. Guidelines for Weighting Evaluation Criteria.

The Kent State Columbiana Campus at East Liverpool considers the annual probationary reappointment review to be a formative and mentoring evaluation. It is an opportunity to help colleagues establish a record of performance in teaching, research and creative activity, as well as service/university citizenship that will be sufficient for continued reappointment and ultimately a successful tenure review. In return, each year candidates are expected to demonstrate through their self-reflection materials and improvement activities how they addressed issues raised in the previous year's review. The electronic file submitted is to be an accurate, complete, and well-organized representation of the candidate's record.

Candidates for review are not evaluated along single, isolated dimensions of performance, but rather on their whole performance, viewed as a unified, integrated record of a teacher-scholar and university citizen. Because candidates are evaluated on their entire record, it is inappropriate to assume that excellence in one area can offset a deficiency in another. Generally, faculty will be evaluated on departmental/school criteria based on the following weighting: 70% of the evaluation shall be based on demonstrated evidence of teaching effectiveness, 30% shall be based on scholarship and service/university citizenship (15-20% on scholarship and 10-15% on service). There is an expectation that all tenure track faculty demonstrate an appropriate level of scholarship according to the faculty member's discipline. Reappointment and tenure evaluations are guided by the following general principles, which reflect the mission and values of the campus:

(C.1) Scholarship of Teaching. Because teaching is the primary mission of the East Liverpool Campus, the goal for a successful candidate for reappointment and eventual tenure is to demonstrate excellence in the scholarship of teaching, defined as "the act of teaching as well as the planning and examination of pedagogical procedures" (Tenure-Track Faculty Collective Bargaining Unit, Addendum A, Section B.2.a.i., p. 85). It may also include pedagogical research related to the discipline and disseminated for peer review. Performance in the act of teaching may be evaluated in multiple ways, including, but not limited to, effective course design and teaching materials, a pattern of positive comments on student evaluations, supportive peer evaluations, ongoing efforts to reflect upon and improve the act of teaching, and positive course evaluations (SSI scores), and/or a teaching portfolio evaluated by master professors in the field.

Teaching Criteria: (70% weighting)

An Excellent rating in teaching would include but not limited to: Innovative teaching methods; constant assessment of effectiveness, superior student and peer evaluation of instruction that are consistent over time; development/revisions of courses in innovative ways using best practices; developing research projects for students (undergraduate and/or graduate); instructional creativity; actively participating in curricular revisions for a program; significant involvement in undergraduate projects and/or honors' theses or projects or graduate theses. Self reflections on teaching with action plans to improve. Recognition of teaching excellence through instructional/teaching awards.

A Significant rating in teaching would include but not limited to: Developing/revising courses to improve instructional delivery and student success; good student evaluations of instruction around or near the campus norming group score and good peer perceptions; work with graduate and/or undergraduate students in research or community outreach projects. Self reflections on teaching and evaluation of successes and areas of improvement. Seeks out resources for instructional improvement. Attends workshops/seminars on pedagogy.

Satisfactory Teaching rating would include appropriate delivery of course materials; good student and peer perceptions; appropriate updating of course materials; and self reflective statement of instructional effectiveness.

(C.2) Research and Creative Activity. Because active engagement with the discipline is necessary to remain current in teaching, a successful candidate for reappointment must demonstrate scholarship or creative activity appropriate to the discipline, which is disseminated for peer review. In early years of reappointment, the candidate must at least demonstrate the development of appropriate scholarship.

By the time of the tenure review, it is expected that this scholarship will have been reviewed/performed/exhibited at the appropriate level of impact (e.g., international, national, regional) for the discipline. Note that the "appropriate level" refers to level of impact rather than to geography. For example, an artistic performance or exhibition could have a regional or national impact even though it is held locally. All candidates are to provide support for the case that their work is of an appropriate level for the discipline.

Research and Creative Activity Criteria (15-20%)

Excellence in scholarship would be demonstrated by a sustained record of scholarship or creative work with demonstrating expertise in a field of study. For example, invitations to present papers/performances at national, international professional conferences; juried articles in important journals in a field of study or juried presentations/shows; presentations of papers, panels, workshops at professional meetings; research-related service to federal/state organizations; recognition from professional societies; receiving grants and awards for research or creative activities; advisory boards for major journals in the field of study or other related activities.

A Significant rating in scholarship would be demonstrated by a record of research or creative activity demonstrating a level of expertise in the field of study. For example, research or creative activity that would have a regional or state audience; juried articles in regional or state journals; presentation of papers, workshops in conferences at state, regional or local levels; writing of grants for research or creative activities.

Satisfactory rating in scholarship would be demonstrated by a minimal amount of scholarship in the discipline according to standards set by the department/school/college; attendance at regional or state conferences or workshops, presenting papers at conferences, workshops.

(C.3) Service/University Citizenship. Service/University citizenship is expected of all tenure-track faculty. By the time of the tenure review, it is expected that the candidate will demonstrate a pattern of increasing service contributions, including some form of leadership (e.g., committee chair or campus representative) or a variety of lesser but noteworthy contributions. Faculty are encouraged to contribute to all levels of service: campus, department and university, and service to one's profession.

Service/university citizenship (10-15% weighting)

Excellence Significant leadership role at the Campus, College and/or University/Professional levels as evidenced by productive service on committees, active participation in significant events, effectively chairing committees, specific administrative assignments, meaningful public outreach.

Significance- Involvement in campus and university wide committees, community presence; involvement as members on important campus and university committees; shows some leadership by chairing committees at the local level or county level.

Satisfactory- membership on standing campus committees and some community involvement; minimal leadership role.

D. Evaluation Process Overview

This section provides a guide on how the evaluation process can be done—without prescribing how it must be done—in order to facilitate evaluation consistency and to clarify expectations as reappointment and tenure ballot recommendations are made.

A candidate’s performance in each category—teaching, research and creative activity/scholarship, and service/university citizenship—can be evaluated using a four-rank scale of excellent, significant, satisfactory, and deficient. (See sections C1-3)

Because of the differences among disciplines and publication, presentation, performance, and/or exhibition venues—and the year of the review process—it is inappropriate to quantify absolutely the scale noted above. Based on the standards of the relevant discipline, the testimony provided by the candidate’s file and peer reviewers, and the discussions during the Reappointment/Tenure Committee meetings, each member of the Committee must necessarily apply his or her own professional judgment in the review to make a final ballot recommendation. When all the evaluations are summarized, a recommendation regarding a candidate’s whole performance, viewed as a unified, integrated record of a teacher-scholar and university citizen emerges consistent with Section (C).

Candidates standing for reappointment and tenure are strongly encouraged to acknowledge these facts as they prepare their files and to explain fully why they think their accomplishments should be considered excellent, significant, or satisfactory given their discipline, their year in the review process, and how they addressed issues raised in the previous year’s review.

In a reappointment decision, evaluators are required to make a final ballot recommendation of “yes,” “yes with reservations,” or “no.” For tenure decisions, only final ballot recommendations of “yes” or “no” are possible. The minimum performance required for an unreserved positive ballot recommendation for a candidate’s reappointment or tenure can be illustrated by the following table:

Scholarship of Teaching (C.1.)	Research and Creative Activity (C2.)	Service (C.3.)
excellent	satisfactory	Satisfactory
significant	significant	Satisfactory
significant	satisfactory	Excellent
satisfactory	excellent	Satisfactory

It should be made clear to both reviewers and candidates that this table does not attempt to identify every possible combination of performance leading to specific ballot recommendations, as that would be inconsistent with the intent of guidelines. Instead, it is consistent with and intended to signal the “general principles, which reflect the mission and values of the campus.” “Deficient” does not appear in the table because deficiency in any area signals that a “yes with reservation” or a “no” reappointment ballot recommendation is warranted. In the case of tenure, it signals that a negative ballot is indicated. Finally, it should be reemphasized that this table makes no attempt to quantify absolutely what constitutes excellent, significant, satisfactory, or deficient performance, which was discussed above.¹

E. Full-time Non-tenure Track (NTT) Faculty Performance Reviews. Full-time non-tenure-track (NTT) faculty are appointed annually on a 9-month academic year basis to a limited term of employment with the University in a capacity that is primarily instructional in nature, with fifteen (15) credit hours per semester as the normal workload. The Dean, in consultation with the Faculty Council, shall specify the kinds of assignments appropriate to the instructional responsibilities of NTT faculty which shall constitute the equivalent in workload of the fifteen credit hours per semester. (NTT Collective Bargaining Agreement, Article VIII, Section 1). All NTT faculty who are completing the third year of a three-year term of annually renewable appointments or at their sixth year of appointments are to undergo a full performance review in the spring semester as a prerequisite for subsequent appointment (NTT Collective Bargaining Agreement, Article IX, Section 4).

Criteria for assessing the quality of a NTT faculty member’s performance for these reviews will be based 100% on established instructional effectiveness and/or best practices in the clinical or research tracks. Whenever scholarly or professional activity other than instruction is required of NTT faculty as a part of the established criteria for performance reviews—departmental or campus—those activities shall be considered. (NTT Collective Bargaining Agreement, Article VII). Procedural guidelines and timetables will be circulated annually by the Office of the Provost in the fall semester prior to the review.

Columbiana County Campus at East Liverpool NTT faculty are responsible for developing and organizing an electronic file for the performance review. The file shall be the subject of candid discussion by the committee except that no member shall be present while the committee discusses or votes on the case of his/her domestic partner or relative. Thereafter, the Faculty Council Chair summarizes the committee’s deliberations and assessment in a letter to the Dean of the Columbiana County Campuses. Then, after reviewing the materials and advisory recommendations, the Dean prepares a summary assessment of performance and conveys this to the appropriate college dean.

For tenure-track librarians, whose primary appointment is not as a classroom instructor, The Work Culture of Libraries and Media Services at Kent State University document should be consulted as it describes the criteria used for assessing the teaching and scholarship of librarians.

F. Kent State Columbiana County Campus at East Liverpool Criteria for NTT Faculty Three-Year Six-Year and Nine-Year Performance Reviews.

Because classroom instruction is the principal responsibility of full-time non-tenure track faculty members, the quality of their teaching will be the primary concern in the three-year, six year and nine-year performance reviews. Criteria for teaching excellence will include the fulfillment of the following expectations. NTT faculty members:

- should be professional in the classroom, maintain order, and conduct class in a climate of civility and respect,
- should use the complete class time for instruction,
- should apply appropriate teaching techniques for a given course, depending upon class size and discipline,
- should remain current in the pedagogical theory of their disciplines and experiment with innovations in classroom teaching,
- should inform students in writing at the beginning of each semester about course objectives and requirements,
- should evaluate student performance on a regular basis and report grades in a timely manner according to University policy,
- should reasonably accommodate students with disabilities according to University and Federal and local policies,
- should receive satisfactory student evaluations using the approved University Student Survey of Instruction form (S.S.I.), and
- must arrange for at least one yearly peer review of their teaching.

SECTION VI

FACULTY RESPONSIBILITY

Because of the missions of the University and the Kent State Columbiana County Campus at East Liverpool, and the close relationships between the campus and the local communities it serves, the primary responsibility of the faculty assigned to this campus is instructional, with emphasis on classroom teaching and its concomitant responsibilities. Additionally, each faculty member should pursue an individualized program of professional growth and development that is appropriate for that member's discipline. Lastly, "university citizenship", service activities that make both significant and positive contributions to the advancement of the educational, scholarly, and governance missions and operation of the university, is a responsibility and concern of all regular full-time faculty members.

A. Professional Ethics

Faculty members are bound by the Faculty Code of Professional Ethics (revised), as set forth in the University Policy Register (3342-6-05).

The Kent State Columbiana County Campus at East Liverpool embraces the institutional core values as noted in the University Policy Register-namely, that academic freedom is necessary to the mission of the faculty of the university, and that professional responsibility is a logical correlative of this freedom. Faculty members have the responsibilities to the students they teach, the university, and to their respective disciplines.

1. Responsibilities to Students

As summarized in the University Policy Register (3342-6-05), the "central responsibility of a faculty member is to attempt to impart a knowledge and understanding of a field of study, develop in students appropriate and relevant skills, and to do so in accordance with the best standards of scholarship and pedagogy in the discipline." As summarized in the Regional campus handbook (Section VIII), faculty members are expected to serve as "role models to students to help them define and support campus-wide standards of integrity." In meeting these responsibilities, faculty members are expected to maintain professional standards when conducting their classes. Summaries of expected behavior can be found in the University Policy Register and Regional campus Handbook. Information about syllabi, office hours, etc., can be found in the Appendix D of this Handbook.

2. Responsibilities to the University

Faculty have certain obligations to the university. The following serve as guidelines regarding the professional code of conduct.

Conflicts of Interest: Faculty members of Columbiana County Campus at East Liverpool are bound by the University policy regarding conflict of interest of university employees, as set forth in the University Policy Register (3342-6-55).

University Policy Regarding Outside Employment: Outside activities of a professional nature are encouraged if the activities are consistent with the individual's responsibilities to the university and in the furtherance of the aims of the university. The university recognizes that one mark of an individual's distinction is the esteem in which he or she is held by those outside the university who may request services, professional judgments, or expertise. No individual, however, should accept employment or pursue other activity of a professional or nonprofessional nature that compromises his or her responsibilities to the university. (See university Policy Register 3342-6-43). Faculty must seek permission of the Dean of the Columbiana County Campuses before pursuing outside employment.

Use of Human Subjects in Research and Teaching: Faculty members are bound by the university policy regarding academic research involving use of human subjects for investigation, as set forth in the University Policy Register (3342-3-02) and Federal Regulations (45 CFR 46, as amended). In brief, faculty must submit a required form and secure approval from Institutional Review Board (IRB) before engaging in research that involves human subjects.

Use of Live Animals in Research and Teaching: Faculty members are bound by the university policy regarding academic research involving the use of live animals, as set forth in the University Policy Register (3342-2-12).

University Policy Statements Regarding Faculty Use of Computers: Kent State University recognizes its role as guardian of a forum the free and open exchange of ideas and information. Additionally, the university recognizes its responsibility to provide an environment of research and learning free of hostility and considerate of others' sensibilities. The university, while not desirous of playing the role of censor, must assure that it provides proper avenues of redress if a member of the university community feels degraded or harassed by something that he/she sees on a university computer display. The university's network system allows access to all manner of textual and graphic information from around the world, some of which may be considered offensive by some people. Individuals who display information of graphic or textual nature in a public or private area, viewable by others who consider it offensive or degrading, are liable to face charges of harassment.

3. Responsibility to the Profession: Faculty members are responsible for maintaining professional standards with respect to research, dissemination of research, and interactions with colleagues as outlined in the University Policy Register (3342-6-05).

B. Contractual Obligation

There are certain contractual expectations that faculty must meet

Meeting Classes: Faculty members shall meet their classes and conduct final examinations at scheduled times. The Dean or designee must approve changes in listed class times and room assignments. You should report all absences to the Dean's Office.

Personal Illness or Emergencies: Classes missed due to illness or personal emergency should be recorded on the appropriate form as soon as the faculty member returns to campus. See the Dean's secretary for more information.

Professional Conference Participation: Participation in conferences is an important facet of a scholar's professional growth. However, it should not be done at the expense of student instruction; nor should classes be cancelled to attend conferences unless absolutely necessary. Coverage for missed classes should be arranged if possible. This may mean that conferences of more than a week or multiple conferences within one semester might be discouraged. Travel to conferences and professional meetings should be cleared in advance with the Dean of the Columbiana County Campuses. (See Appendix E, Travel Policy and Procedures)

Personal Leaves of Absence: There are many legitimate reasons why a faculty member may request a leave-of-absence, e.g., court duty, military service, pregnancy, illness, temporary disability, research, graduate study, or travel. Most of these leaves are acquired without pay. Special circumstances govern each category of leave. As an example, the university will pay a faculty member full salary if he/she is subpoenaed to attend court as a witness or for jury duty by the United States or State of Ohio.

Military Leaves-of-Absence can also be requested, as described in the University Policy Register (3342-6-27).

Faculty Development: A variety of programs are available through the university, including travel grants, grants to conduct research, during the summer or academic year, etc., which may require faculty to miss all or part of the semester. Special arrangements must be made with the Dean of the Columbiana County campuses for a faculty member to go forward with such awards. For more information, the University Teaching Council (UTC) may be contacted.

C. Accommodating Students with Disabilities

All faculty members are required to accommodate those students with disabilities who are identified by the Office of Student Accessibility Services. For more information, contact the Columbian County Campus at East Liverpool, Student Accessibility Officer.

The following statement must be included on all course syllabi:

“Kent State University recognizes its responsibility for creating an institutional climate in which students with disabilities can succeed. In accordance with University Policy, if you have a documented disability, you may request accommodations to obtain equal access and to promote your learning in this class. Please contact the Coordinator of Student Accessibility Services through the campus Student Services Office to inquire about appropriate accommodations. After your eligibility is determined, you will be given a letter, which when presented to instructors, will help us know best how to assist you.”

SECTION VII

FACULTY DEVELOPMENT

Kent State University provides support for faculty development in teaching and research and creative activity. The University has faculty professional improvement (sabbatical) and research leave policies under which eligible faculty may petition for a semester or a yearlong leave. Additionally, faculty members at the Kent State Columbiana Campus at East Liverpool have the opportunity to apply for Regional Campus Teaching and Professional Development Awards when available. The East Liverpool Campus also makes available release time (load lifts) and follows University policy regarding faculty travel and reimbursements for scholarly and development activities.

A. Scholarship of Teaching

The University—and the Columbiana County Campus at East Liverpool—provide faculty teaching development support in numerous ways. The Campus offers faculty support to attend pedagogical conferences; give pedagogical and professional papers; and gather materials unavailable at the Kent Campus. It also provides release time (load lifts) and financial opportunities for purchasing materials (software, multimedia equipment, etc.) and working on teaching or curricular innovation.

The University Teaching Council (UTC). The UTC hosts a variety of teaching and learning projects around the eight campuses of Kent State. An annual conference sponsored by UTC is a celebration of the scholarship of teaching across the eight-campus system which features nationally prominent keynote speakers along with poster displays and panel discussions on various topics.

Faculty Professional Development Center. The Faculty Professional Development Center, located in Moulton Hall on the Kent Campus, is designed to serve the Kent State University faculty, teaching assistants and administration, including all those who teach and engage in scholarship of teaching.

Regional Campuses Teaching Development Award Competition (Summer). The purpose of these awards is to provide financial support for tenured or tenure-track Regional Campuses faculty to develop a project to promote instructional excellence. Awards are also available for non-tenure-track faculty. Awards are made on a competitive basis, with evaluations conducted by a committee of fellow faculty members.

Faculty Cultural Exchange Program. Teaching opportunities overseas exist via the Center for International and Comparative Programs and the Faculty Field Experience Awards, available to both tenure-track and non-tenure track faculty. Kent State University has entered into faculty exchange programs with a number of foreign universities, such as Warsaw University in Poland, the University of Leicester in England, the University of Ulster in Northern Ireland, the University of Leipzig in Germany.

B. Research and Creative Activity

Kent State University provides a wealth of opportunities for faculty professional development in research and creative activity.

Institutional Research & Creative Activity Support/University Research Council. The University Research Council funds research and other scholarly activity, travel to professional conferences, publication page charges, and publication reprint charges. The University also awards Summer and Academic Year Research and Creative Activity Appointments to faculty members selected through a peer review process.

Regional Campuses Faculty Professional Development Award Competition (Summer).

The purpose of these awards is to provide financial support for tenured or tenure-track Regional Campus faculty members who are emerging scholars to develop scholarly and creative pursuits. Awards are made on a competitive basis, with evaluations conducted by a committee of fellow faculty members.

Regional Campuses Faculty Field Experience (Summer)

The summer Faculty Field Experience Award provides financial support for full-time tenured and non tenure track faculty on the Regional Campuses as they renew and update their field-based knowledge and expertise in their respective disciplines.

Research and Graduate Studies Support. The University's Division of Research & Graduate Studies, through the Sponsored Programs office, assists faculty/staff who are seeking or have been awarded external funding to support their scholarly and creative activities.

Professional Improvement Leaves (Sabbatical). Research and Creative Activity Sabbaticals and Leaves of Absence policies are detailed in the University Policy Register (3342-6-34 and 3342-6-351, 352).

SECTION VIII

FACULTY GRIEVANCES AND APPEALS

The Grievance and Appeals process for the hearing and disposition of faculty grievances and appeals at the Kent State Columbiana Campus at East Liverpool conforms with the Grievance/Appeals process of the University as a whole. This process will be observed in the letter and the spirit of both procedural and substantive due process (see the current Collective Bargaining Agreements).

SECTION IX

CONDUCT AND COMPLAINT POLICIES

A. Faculty/Student Conduct

The Kent State Columbiana County Campus at East Liverpool subscribes to the conduct policies set forth in the University Digest of Rules and Regulations and the University Policy Register (student sections include 3342-4-15, 3342-4-15.2, 3342-8-08; faculty sections include 3342-6-05, 3342-3-22). At a minimum, faculty should strive to achieve the following in their classrooms:

- The treatment of all participants, faculty and students alike, with courtesy, civility, and respect;
- The establishment of a climate wherein questions, relevant comments, imagination, and intellectual interaction are encouraged;
- The nondiscriminatory treatment of students, regardless of their personal or social backgrounds, preferences, or characteristics;
- The encouragement of civil conduct by the addition of a statement in the syllabus to that effect.

B. Cheating and Plagiarism

Responses to cheating and plagiarism are discussed in detail in the University Policy Register (3342-3-07) and the Digest of Rules and Regulations. Appropriate punishment for each offense is an individual question and should be decided according to the University Policy Register and in consultation with other authorities as necessary. Additional guidance regarding plagiarism is located on the Kent Columbiana Campuses web page (under Faculty Governance, Teaching policies). We also encourage faculty to teach students by special workshops or other forums the scope and nature of what encompasses plagiarism and cheating.

C. Student Complaints/Faculty Conduct

The University Policy Register (3342-8-06) and the Digest of Rules and Regulations outlines the procedure for addressing student complaints against instructors. The East Liverpool Campus has a student complaint adviser, a faculty or staff member appointed by the Columbiana Campuses' Dean, who shall put such policy into motion when requested. When there is a failure to resolve the grievance between the student and the respondent, the officer has the responsibility of convening a hearing committee composed of faculty and student representatives. The outcome of the hearing is reported to the Columbiana County Campuses' Dean on the proper form and in a timely manner.

D. Faculty Complaints/Student Conduct

The University Policy Register (3342-8-08) and the Digest of Rules and Regulations outlines the procedure for addressing faculty complaints about inappropriate student conduct. The Dean shall appoint a student conduct coordinator, a member of the dean's administrative staff. The Dean will also recommend at least two full-time faculty or staff members as hearing officers, who, along with student representatives, will hear cases convened at the discretion of the conduct coordinator. Such behavior as deemed disruptive to the integrity of the class or which presents an implied or direct threat to the instructor or classroom progress should be brought to the attention of the Student Conduct Officer. He or she may then initiate the formal process of a hearing to determine a student's right to remain in the class or in the University.

E. Harassment

Kent State is absolutely committed to the principles of freedom of expression. Members of the University community have the right to hold, vigorously defend and promote their opinions. The maintenance of civility is crucial to the learning community. Therefore, Kent State is also committed to maintaining an educational and employment environment free from hostility, intimidation, or harassment based on such attributes as race, color, religion, national origin, age disability, gender and/or sexual orientation, or on any other basis, to the extent that they are not covered in Rule 3342-6-01.1 (3342-6-011) of the University Policy Register.

F. Equal Opportunity

Kent State Columbiana County Campus at East Liverpool is committed to equal opportunity for all members of the campus community. Policies associated with this commitment can be found in the University Policy Register (particularly sections 3342-6-01, 3342-6-01.1 [6-011], 3342-6-02, and 3342-6-02.1 [6-021]).

G. Drugs, Alcohol, and Tobacco

Kent State Columbiana County Campus at East Liverpool , like the University as a whole, is committed to following state and local laws concerning alcohol and tobacco use on campus, to maintaining a workplace free of illegal drugs, using as a guideline the Drug Free Schools and Communities Act Amendments of 1989 (Public Law 101-226). Specific guidelines for both faculty and student conduct with respect to alcohol and drugs can be found in the University Policy Register (e.g., sections 3342-6-60, 3342-4-09 through 3342-4-11) and in the Digest of Rules and Regulations. We at East Liverpool recognize addiction as a serious medical problem and encourage both faculty and students to seek appropriate therapies, whether the addiction is illegal or legal.

FACULTY TEACHING PERFORMANCE

The Faculty Senate has endorsed the Report on Faculty Teaching Performance for distribution through the office of the Vice President of Academic and Student Affairs to Deans and Heads of all academic units throughout the University. It is the specific intent of the Faculty Senate that this document be the subject of discussion among the faculty at Kent State University, that the list of the basic requirements stated below be included in the Faculty Handbook of each department or school, and that the report be advertised and discussed with new faculty, with part-time and temporary instructors, and with graduate fellows and teaching assistants in every academic unit.

The list below does not address those subtle and complex qualities that go toward making an outstanding course or an outstanding professor. Rather it addresses those items that lie within the power of faculty to follow, exhibit, or adopt.

A. Class Management

The following items are seen as minimal expectations of any college instructor. For the most part they involve actions and procedures easily undertaken and readily assessable.

1. Regular and reasonable office hours consistent with school policy and the needs of students.
2. Provision of syllabus including, but not limited to, the following:
 - a. a statement on course objectives and expectations,
 - b. a general calendar indicating the substance and sequence of the course and important dates and deadlines, and
 - c. a clear statement of grading policy and grade weighting.
3. Punctuality in starting/ending classes.
4. Reasonable notification of and provision for faculty absence.
5. Adequate notification of assignments, examinations, and changes in syllabus.
6. Provision of reasonable make-up procedures for legitimately missed exams or other graded work.

7. Evaluation of work with adequate and constructive comments written on the students' papers or orally to the whole class as is appropriate to the character of the test or assignment.
8. Evaluation of work within a reasonable time frame that allows the student to benefit from the instructor's comments prior to the next assignment.

B. Basic Pedagogy

The intellectual and judgmental skill essential for acceptable teaching is more open to interpretation than class management techniques. However, the following items are presented as constructive suggestions for improving teaching on our campuses.

- 1 Content, assignments, and approach reasonable to the level, aims, and nature of the course.
- 2 Concern for appropriate teaching technique.
- 3 Effective use of class time.
- 4 Adequate class and course preparation.
- 5 Testing and grading practices relate directly to course content and assignments.
- 6 Communication skills appropriate to the level of students and subject matter in the course.¹
- 7 Knowledge and currency regarding subject matter.²

C. Student-Faculty Relations

Interpersonal relations inevitably are difficult to prescribe and evaluate, and yet they set the tone and environment for the learning experience. In this regard, the Committee views the following as essential.

- 1 Courtesy/civility/respect.
- 2 Establishing a climate wherein questions, relevant comments, and intellectual interaction are encouraged.
- 3 Nondiscriminatory treatment of students based on their personal or social backgrounds, preferences, or characteristics.

² It is the responsibility of faculty members to remain current in the material covered in their own courses and to be knowledgeable about developments in their disciplines, especially as regards changes in cognate courses within the department or school curriculum. The administration shares this responsibility, first in providing time and encouragement for professional development, and secondly, in responsibly managing class assignments appropriate to the knowledge and background of the individual faculty member.

APPENDIX E

FACULTY PROFESSIONAL TRAVEL POLICY

When the budget allows, the Campus Dean sets aside monies to encourage faculty involvement in professional associations, meetings, and conferences. When available, this money is distributed to eligible faculty: full-time tenured, tenure-track and non-tenure track. At the East Liverpool Campus, the faculty approved a Travel Reimbursement Policy on October 9, 2001. It was agreed that all eligible Tenured, Tenure-Track, and Non-Tenure Track faculty will be polled the beginning of the academic year in order to determine their intent to travel for professional purposes only (conferences, professional association meetings, seminars, etc).

Based on the results of the poll, a reassessment of who will and will not be utilizing the professional travel allowance will be determined. The Travel Committee or designee will then submit the poll results to the Business Office for re-calculation of travel fund amounts. Results will then be submitted to the Dean and Assistant Dean. Faculty will be notified via e-mail of the adjusted re-allocation. Below is a copy of the Intention to Travel Form and procedures.

PROFESSIONAL TRAVEL REQUEST INTENT TO TRAVEL FORM

According to guidelines passed by the Faculty Council (10/9/01 meeting) eligible Tenured, Tenure-Track, and Non-Tenure Track faculty will be polled the beginning of the academic year in order to determine their intent to travel for professional purposes only (conferences, professional association meetings, seminars, etc).

Based on the results of the poll, a reassessment of who will and will not be utilizing the professional travel allowance will be determined. The Travel Committee or designee will then submit the poll results to the Business Office for re-calculation of travel fund amounts. Results will then be submitted to the Dean and Assistant Dean. Faculty will be notified via e-mail of the adjusted re-allocation.

Please take note: If you decide to submit for travel reimbursement at a later date but did not apply for travel fund allocations at this time, the funds will not be available for your use. The pool of money will have been reallocated to those with definite plans for professional travel.

In addition to the East Liverpool Professional Travel Fund Pool, you are highly encouraged to seek other available funding from the University Teaching Council (UTC) at <http://dept.kent.edu/utc/> and/or the University Research Council <http://www.kent.edu/rags/Research/University-Research-Council.cfm> (under Forms Library) Also those who choose not to travel, but later on want to, please contact UTC and or URC-RAGS for possible funding opportunities.
